INFORMATION FOR AUTHORS

General provisions

The University of Architecture, Civil Engineering and Geodesy (UACEG) is the publisher of the scientific journal The Annual of the UACEG, which is open access and has a wide readership. All submitted papers are reviewed quickly and undergo a rigorous review process, scientific editing and pre-print processing. Our goal is to make scientific discoveries and achievements accessible to everyone. Our policy is not to discriminate on the basis of race, skin colour, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, age, religion, country of origin, physical abilities or socioeconomic status.

Manuscripts submitted for publication in the Annual of the UACEG must meet the highest standards of publication ethics – without plagiarism, reporting only results that have not been submitted or even partially published before. They must be original and must not reuse text or graphic information from another source without appropriate citation.

All manuscripts submitted for publication in our journal are strictly and thoroughly peer-reviewed. Upon receipt of a paper, the editor-in-chief of the relevant scientific field performs an initial check of the manuscript's suitability for publication. Then he/she directs it to an appropriate reviewer. Accepted papers (including those in English) are edited scientifically and stylistically.

The editor-in-chief discusses each step of the process with the reviewer and communicates decisions to the authors regarding the following:

• Acceptance as is: The paper is accepted without further changes.

• Acceptance after minor revisions: The paper is generally accepted after revisions based on the reviewer's comments. Authors are given seven days to make minor revisions.

• Reconsideration after major revisions: Acceptance of the manuscript will be contingent on the revisions. Authors must provide a response to all points of the review or provide a rebuttal if any of the reviewer's comments cannot be revised. Authors are given fourteen days to resubmit the revised document so that the revised version can be returned to the reviewer for additional comments.

• Rejection: The paper has serious shortcomings, makes no original scientific contribution, and/or is found to be plagiarized. In this case, it is rejected without a proposal for resubmission to the journal.

In case any of the above deadlines is not met, the paper is automatically rejected and will not be published in its current form in the Annual of the UACEG. If the author nevertheless revises his/her paper and resubmits it, it will be treated as a newly submitted document and will have to go through the entire review process again.
